These rules shall come into force with effect from the 1st April, 1911.

Rule I. Reclamation of waste land.—When land is reclaimed from waste and is brought under cultivation the increase in value derived from the improvement shall not be taken into account in revising the assessment of land revenue on the land until the expiration of a period of five years reckoned from the beginning of the harvest first reaped after such reclamation was effected.

Provided that the provisions of this rule shall not apply to grants of land held on special terms from the Government which shall be assessed in accordance with the terms of the grants, or to ordinary extensions of cultivation in the waste lands of villages.

Rule II. Improvement by irrigation.—When land assessed at unirrigated rates is improved by irrigation from a well or otherwise, the increase in value derived from the improvement shall not be taken into account in determining or revising the assessment of land revenue on the land:—

- (a) If the irrigation is provided by the construction of a new well, * until the expiration of the term of the next settlement or reassessment of rates.

* New well includes a well which replaces an old one.

(b) If the irrigation is provided by the construction of a Nadi, distributary, Rappat or by any other means, until the expiration of a period to be determined by the Collector on the merits of the improvement with reference to the actual expenditure incurred on it and the increase in value of the land created thereby, the period being sufficiently long to recoup the expenditure and to give eight per cent. interest on the capital outlay during the period of recoupment.

Rule III.—These exemptions shall be allowed only to those persons who get their improvements registered in the Collector's office within two months from the date on which the source of irrigation began to be utilised, and who obtain an extract from the register of improvements duly signed by the Collector or any other officer not below the rank of Extra Assistant Commissioner authorised by him in this behalf.

Rule IV.—The Commissioner is empowered to make at his discretion special reductions of assessment in cases where substantial sums have been spent for the renovation of existing improvements.

Rule V.—Nothing in these rules shall be understood as limiting the powers of the Chief Commissioner in any case to give to persons, who make improvements, more liberal terms than those mentioned in rules I and II or as depriving any land owner or lessee of any remission or favourable assessment to which he may be entitled under the terms of any existing agreement or unexpired settlement.
